Our Review

By CONDÉ NAST TRAVELER

A renovated 19th-century mansion in the heart of Palma is all about old-meets-new: much of the original features of the building have been preserved including its main staircase, which flows right into the lobby. The 42-room hotel functions more as a private home, with two restaurants and a rooftop serving up fresh Mediterranean flavors and traditional regional specialties (plus dining al fresco in Quadrat's garden, with its signature pan de cristal with local tomatoes and olive oil, is a great way to start any afternoon and the "Chocolate in 1,000 Textures" is a nuanced, layered dessert). The hotel is perfectly situated to explore the city's treasures that surround it (these include Mallorca's gothic masterpiece of a cathedral). In-room amenities have been updated to welcome a modern guest, from English perfumer James Heely's fragranced atelier to Nespresso machines.
